- (1) Records in a proceeding under the Family Code, including proceedings for dissolution, legal separation, and nullity of marriage; child and spousal support proceedings; child custody proceedings; and domestic violence prevention proceedings;
- (2) Records in a juvenile court proceeding;
- (3) Records in a guardianship or conservatorship proceeding;

While electronic access to the records listed above will not be available on the court's website, the public can access these records electronically using kiosks located in clerk's offices or by seeking help at clerk's counters. The planned change will make the court in compliance with California Rules of Court 2.503 (<http://courts.ca.gov/7260.htm?title=two>), which became effective January 1, 2010 and outlines the public's access to court records.

The changes effective April 1, 2011 will not impact remote electronic access of court calendars, register of actions, and tentative rulings currently available on the court's website.
